Reminiscences of Lincoln

F. B. Carpenter, the artist who painted the picture of "The Signing of the Emancipation Proclamation," contributes to the Independent his "Personal Impressions of Lincoln," embodying some interesting reminiscences, which we copy below:

It has been the business of my life, as you know, to study the human face, and I say now as I have said repeatedly to friends, Lincoln had the saddest face I ever painted! During some of the dark days of last spring and summer I saw him at times when his care worn and troubled appearance was enough to bring tears of sympathy into the eyes of his most violent enemies. I recall particularly one day, when, having occasion to pass through the main hall of the domestic apartments, I found him all alone, pacing up and down a narrow passage, his hands behind him, his head bent forward upon his breast, heavy black rings under his eyes, showing sleepless nights—altogether such a picture of the effects of weighty cares and responsibilities as I never had seen. And yet he always had a kind word and almost always a genial smile, and it was his way frequently to relieve himself at such times by some harmless pleasantry. I recollect an instance told me by one of the most radical members of the last Congress. It was during the darkest days of 1862. He called upon the President early one morning just after the news of a disaster. It was a time of great anxiety, if not despondency. Lincoln commenced telling some trifling incident—which the Congressman was in no mood to hear. He rose to his feet, and said "Mr. President, I did not come here this morning to hear stories; it is too serious a time." Instantly the smile disappeared from Lincoln's face, who exclaimed "A——, sit down! I respect you as an earnest, sincere man. You cannot be more anxious than I am constantly, and I say to you now, that if it were not for this occasional vent I should die."

A large number of those whom he saw every day came with appeals to his feelings in reference to relatives and friends in confinement and under sentence of death. It was a constant marvel to me that, with all his other cares and duties, he could give so much time and be so patient with this multitude. I have known him to sit for hours patiently listening to details of domestic troubles from poor people—much of which, of course, irrelative—carefully sifting the facts and manifesting as much anxiety to do exactly right as in matters of the gravest interest. Poorly clad people were more likely to get a good hearing than those who came in silks and velvets. No one was ever turned away from his door because of poverty. If he erred, it was sure to be on the side of mercy. It was one of his most painful tasks to confirm a sentence of death. I recollect the case of a somewhat noted rebel prisoner, who had been sentenced to death, I believe, as a spy. A strong application had been made to have his sentence commuted. While this was pending, he attempted to escape from confinement, and was shot by the sentinel on guard. Although he richly deserved death, Lincoln told Judge Holt, in my presence, that, "It was a great relief to him that the man took his fate into his own hands."

If the slightest occasion existed for showing clemency, he was sure to improve it.

Judge Bates, in the same conversation referred to above, said that he had often told the President that "he was hardly fit to be intrusted with the pardoning power." "Why," said the Judge, "he can scarcely turn away from the application (if it touches his feelings) of a man, and the tears of a woman are sure to overcome him!"

A touching instance of his kindness of heart occurred quite recently, and was told me incidentally by one of the servants. A [illegible] woman from Philadelphia had been [illegible] with a babe in her arms, for three days to see the President. Her husband furnished a substitute for the army, but some time afterward was one day made intoxicated by some companions, and in this state induced to enlist. Soon after he reached the army he deserted, thinking that, as he had provided a substitute, the Government was not entitled to his services. Returning home he was, of course, arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced to be shot. His sentence was to be executed on Saturday. On Monday his wife left her home with her babe, to endeavor to see the President. Said old Daniel: "She had been waiting here three days, and there was no chance to get in. Late in the afternoon of the third day the President was going through the back passage to his private room, to get a cup of tea or take some rest." (This passage way has lately been constructed, and shuts the person passing through it entirely out of view of the occupants of the ante-room.) "On his way through he heard a little babe cry. He instantly went back to his office and rang the bell. 'Daniel,' said he, 'is there a woman with a babe in the ante-room?' I said there was, and if he would allow me to say it, I thought it was a case he ought to see, for it is a matter of life or death. Said he, 'send her to me at once.' She went in, told her story, and the President pardoned her husband. As the woman came out from his presence her eyes were lifted and her lips moving in prayer, and the tears streaming down her cheeks. I went up to her and pulling her shawl said: 'Madam, it was the babe that did it.'"

Another touching incident occurred, I believe, the same week. A woman in a faded shawl and hood, somewhat advanced in life, at length was admitted in her turn, to the President. Her husband and three sons, all she had in the world, enlisted. Her husband had been killed, and she had come to ask the President to release her the oldest son. Being satisfied of the truthfulness of her story, he said: "Certainly, if her prop was taken away, she was justly entitled to one of her boys." He immediately wrote an order for the discharge of the young man.—The poor woman thanked him very gratefully and went away. On reaching the army she found that this son had been in a recent engagement, was wounded and taken to an hospital. She found the hospital, but the boy was dead, or died while she was there. The Surgeon in charge made a memorandum of the facts upon the back of the President's order, and almost broken-hearted, the poor woman found her way again into his presence. He was much affected by her appearance and story, and said: "I know what you wish me to do now, and I shall do it without asking, I shall release to you your second son." Upon this he took up his pen and commenced writing the order. While he was writing, the poor woman stood by his side, the tears running down her face, and passed her hand softly over his head, stroking his rough hair as I have seen a fond mother do to a son. By the time he had finished writing, his own heart and eyes were full. He handed her the paper. "Now," said he, "you have one and I one of the other two left; that is no more than right." She took the paper and reverently placing her hand again upon his head, the tears still upon her cheeks, said: "The Lord bless you, Mr. President. May you live a thousand years, and may you always be the head of this great nation!"

The War in Texas

The unbroken and profound repose which has succeeded the demolition of the military power of the rebellion east of the Mississippi almost causes the country to forget that there is still an organized hostile force in one of the extreme parts of our national territory. No one supposes that these rebels have the ability to make any effectual resistance to the power of the Government. Whether they have a disposition to do so is a matter of less certainty. Texas has so far been free from the devastations of war. The clouds which have rolled over her sister States have for the most part broken away before reaching her confines. She has hitherto stood merely in the perilous edge of battle, liable indeed at any time to be sunk in the ruin of devastating war, but hitherto escaping from the now impending fate which on account of her infidelity to the Union she both invokes and deserves.

Less than twenty years ago Texas procured admission into the American Union. The acquisition of this State cost us an expensive and bloody war. By means of intrigue, chicane and deception the General Government was induced to assume the Texan debt, amounting to many millions. Notwithstanding the recency of the acquisition of Texas, and the immensity of the sum which she cost the country, her obligations were forgotten, and she assumed to withdraw to company with the States for the benefit of whose "peculiar institution," she was annexed to the Union at so great an outlay of treasure and blood. For many years, Texas has contained great numbers of the most untractable and violent of all the evil spirits who have supported that hideous deformity, called the "Southern system." Her public men were thoroughly imbued with the peculiar doctrines which had their origin in the composition of Southern society, yet if possible, they were more dangerous than others, because they did not possess the culture that belonged to the leading men of other Southern States. In Texas the very worst features of slavery have always been witnessed. No other State has been more jealous of any interference with this wrong.

But is it probable that the rebels of Texas will continue the contest? To suppose that they can continue it long would be absurd even in the rebel optimist; the only question is whether they will try to prolong it at all. During the war, Texas has enjoyed perhaps a greater degree of prosperity than she had ever before known. Removed from the theatre of war, thousands of people went thither from other parts of the South. With their property and negroes they have remained there in security. In this way Texas has gained considerably in population and much in wealth. Commerce through several of her ports has, until recently, been almost unobstructed. The production of cotton and sugar has, it is thought, been increased. In the full tide of their prosperity, the people of Texas are to decide whether they will submit and save their State from destruction, or whether they prefer by continuing rebellious, to be visited by the desolation of war. The desire to secure their State in its present prosperous condition may induce them to forbear. Further obstinacy will result in changing a section of country hitherto untraversed by armies, into a wasted desert. The knowledge that further resistance is vain, joined with a desire to avert the calamities of war, may, and no doubt will induce the Texans to yield without protracting the struggle.

FIRE AT THE DALLES.—Yesterday morning a fire broke out at the Dalles, and in a short time was raging furiously. It was kindled at so early an hour of the morning, that it got under head way before the citizens could be aroused to contend against it. We learn that the supposition is that the origin of the fire was the work of an incendiary. The Mountaineer gives the following account:

About — o'clock this morning, a fire broke out in the row of frame buildings fronting on the south side of Main street, above Washington, and such was the inflammable nature of the buildings that all attempts to arrest its progress failed. At this writing, the store of Humason, Stocking & Co., is destroyed, also the store and tin store of Geo. H. Twichell, as also the whole row of frame buildings as far up as Thatcher & Co.'s store, which thus far has withstood the fire. Of the buildings destroyed, one was occupied by a Mexican as a saddlery store, another a barber shop, and two of the buildings were vacant. Extending to the rear of the two story frame occupied by Humason & Odell, as a law office, is destroyed. Crossing the alley, Rudio's stable fronting on Washington street, is burned. At one time the buildings on the north side of Main street occupied by F. A. Hake as a saddlery store were partially on fire, but by superhuman exertions the fire was arrested.

Three o'clock A. M.—The fire is fully subdued and is confined to the block in which it originated. The stone buildings in every instance withstood the flames and served to check the spread of the fire. Of those who were burned out Humason, Stocking & Co., hardware dealers, are the heaviest sufferers. They lost their entire stock, saving only their books.

G. H. Twichell, stove and tin dealer saved a part of his stock, but is a heavy sufferer. J. Rudio, livery stable keeper saved his horses and vehicles. F. A. Hake lost by the hasty removal of his stock. Geo. Thatcher & Co., suffered in the same way. The firemen were early on the ground, and by very great exertions kept the fire from spreading. There was great danger of the fire crossing to the north side of Main street but this was prevented by the heroic exertions of the firemen and citizens, among whom we hear name Messrs. Elfelt and Waldron, who stood at their posts when their clothes were burning on their backs.

"PROFIT, O PROFIT FAIR!"—A meeting is appointed to be held at Dallas, Polk county, on the 10th of the present month for the purpose of discussing such measures as will tend to the maintenance of civil authority. It is said that Judge Boise and J. S. Smith will address the meeting. To the meeting there can be no objection, and in possible contingencies it might be productive of good. We except, however to the way in which the Copperhead papers speak of the movement. Because loyal men will consent to associate in any manner with these Copperheads they take it as an indication of returning sense in the minds of the people." They commend meetings of this kind because they will do much to remove the asperity of feeling which the war has engendered between political parties and to restore the confidence of citizens in each other. If the war has engendered ill feeling it is the fault of those who supported the rebels against the Government. As for restoring confidence between Union men and their opponents it can never be done. Loyal men can never be induced to trust them who are traitors. Let them be kept at a distance, and let them publicly receive neither favor nor pardon.

COWLITZ COUNTY (W. T.) ELECTION RETURNS.—The returns from Cowlitz county give Denny, Union, 67; Tilton, Cop. 47. The Union majority on the legislative ticket is somewhat greater.

[CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

FROM UMATILLA TO WALLA WALLA.

WALLA WALLA, June 4, 1865.

Sending my trunk on by a good, comfortable, fertile, I [illegible] discharged its freight during the night, at about 2½ o'clock A. M., went steaming on its way to Wallula. We were called about [illegible] o'clock in the morning, having slept soundly to the musical [illegible] of the rain that pattered upon [illegible]. Wallula [illegible] the [illegible] of Wallula [illegible] refreshingly at this [illegible] the [illegible] Wallula's sides. It was the [illegible] day, one of the [illegible] The approach to Wallula offers one of the most beautiful views upon the river which I discovered before leaving Portland. [illegible] the fine picture I [illegible] has lately finished [illegible] and which is [illegible] justice to the [illegible] artist. The bluffs had closed in again and [illegible] than usual [illegible] strikingly peculiar by the [illegible] marked the ascent, step by step, from the water's edge. Alongside of it the Sister Rocks, two huge points of basalt rose, a striking object in the landscape, between which [illegible] and the division line of Oregon and Washington was traced, but which statement was only a practical myth, as I ascertained that the State line in reality, crosses the river about a mile below. Wallula is a point that in some respects, commands a more favorable opinion from the traveler than does Umatilla. The location possesses more attractions for the eye, and the gravelly shore appears better than does the unbroken sand bank that makes its more fortunate rival look rather forbiddingly. Umatilla has the great acquired advantages of houses, population and trade, which I believe its citizens consider more than an offset for the picturesque appearance of Wallula. But the latter place has trade and population too, though the houses of Umatilla outnumber it many times. It is said that at the time when Wallula should have competed for the lead its proprietor declined selling lots on the water front at any price. It was his opinion that no other point could compete with this and he apparently considered the whole trade of the Upper Columbia and Snake river insured to himself. Probably he has changed his mind, for those he drove away found front lots vacant at Umatilla and took the trade principally to that place.

Breakfast over, the stage is waiting to take us to Walla Walla, some 30 miles distant. The road seems short despite the rain that continues to fall in a steady drizzle, for after leaving the sand hills behind, we follow up the Walla Walla river, and over the hills by turns, frequently in sight of the farms that adorn the valley which widens out as we ascend it, and whose fields are the richest and most productive to be found in Oregon, Washington or Idaho. A broad assertion but undoubtedly true.

THE WALLA WALLA VALLEY.

There were two coaches loaded full with men, women and children. Our advance was at first slow, as the deep sand at times impeded our progress. There are few finer stage teams seen anywhere, than those to be found hitched to Thomas & [illegible] coaches on the Boise road. Working out of the heavy sand, we were soon rolling along over the hills, where bunch grass luxuriated, at times driving down to the greener regions of the valley, to leave it again as the hills offered a near cut off. The ten miles before reaching this place, were entirely through the valley, with fine farms, rich fields, and frequently with handsome or neat residences in view. The fields are mostly sowed to wheat and look magnificently rich and luxuriant. The present rain is needed to insure to the valley, perhaps, the richest crop ever raised. The valley widens as we ascend it, until at last farms stretch around us in every direction. It is a fertile and well watered plain, in the midst of which the busy town stands inviting custom for its long business street and seems to possess its full share of it. Walla Walla is not dependent upon mines, but can thrive upon the home trade. There are few more beautiful locations, or more important inland points than this. About a mile to the west of it is Fort Walla Walla, so called, which is rather a garrison post than a fort. Capt. Powell's company is there at present. The buildings and improvements at the post forms an important adjunct to the place, and like all Uncle Sam's undertakings are very handsomely laid out and constructed. Of course the military form an important feature and characteristic of life hereabouts. In the Walla Walla region, which includes the Touchet Valley, are four flouring mills, all making good breadstuffs. The name of Walla Walla attached to flour is no longer a reproach as was the case a few years ago. There are three water wheels in the town, running to carry machinery for mechanical purposes. Still another large merchant mill and distillery are being erected by Messrs. Kyger & Reese, and a brewery and distillery are now running. So you perceive Walla Walla has some proportions and extent of resources, for it raises the grain to keep all these institutions in operation. Some one said in my hearing that there were many threshing machines owned by grain raisers in this vicinity, which will convey to the farming world an idea of the grain growing proportions of what is known as the Walla Walla Valley. A tannery is also under fair headway not over a mile from town. I see by the township plats, copies of which are in the office of Mr. H. Parker at Walla Walla, that there are five hundred farms located in this vicinity, one hundred of which are over the line in Oregon. Last year the Touchet Valley alone raised 180,000 bushels of oats.

Sheep raising is becoming an important feature with the farming world here and steps are already taken to insure the erection of a woolen factory at this point—water power being abundant—as soon as sufficient wool can be raised to supply the demand of the factory.

THE DISCOVERIES AT COEUR D'ALENE.

Some little interest is felt here in the newly discovered mines to the north. Nothing particularly new has been heard of late, though general confidence exists in there being good mines there. I met at the Dalles an old friend from Marion county who told me that in 1855, ten years since he made a journey to the mission of Father De Smet, at the time when there was a great emigration of French and half breeds from French Prairie thither. They prospected for gold, but made no valuable discoveries. The Indians said they were willing to show the French where the gold was, but they did not want the Bostons in their country. Father [illegible] of Father Mesplie of French Prairie that there was an immense treasure in that mountain range, and when asked why he did not introduce it to the notice of the world, replied that he was then making progress in teaching and civilizing the Indians, which would be retarded by the vices of the white men which would demoralize the Indians and render his labors futile. So this gold bearing region has been known for ten years, but concealed. These Coeur d'Alene Indians have always been friendly, and are a race of superior character. In the time of the Indian war of 1855 and six they offered to take a contract for a certain number of blankets, to whip out all the hostile tribes in the upper country, but unfortunately they did not get the job.

Two men from the new mines are said to be here laying in supplies, but they do not tell any more than is usually said of rich diggings though they appear to be preparing to return.

POSTAL MATTERS AWRY.—A subscriber at Bridgeport, Polk county, writes us a letter full of all manner of [illegible] expressions which are to be hurled at somebody somewhere, because this injured subscriber has not got his paper. In conclusion he asks us to remember this curse of [illegible] Bridgeport, for it is a rascally place." Now if they had [illegible] we would gladly help this subscriber to get his paper. We do not know whom to charge with the fault, but the truth is our postal system in all the side routes in the State sadly needs mending. We entreat Postmasters along the main southern line not to send papers which ought to remain in Oregon through to California. Vigilance and care would put an end to all these vexatious irregularities.

DEATH TO THE TRAITORS!—Alluding to the [illegible] of the proposition to exile Lee, Beauregard, Bragg, and the rebel Generals, the Red Bluff Independent says:

[illegible] Are they not already sufficient [illegible] the [illegible] ready to be thrust through the [illegible] Liberty in foreign lands with a free [illegible] recruits to the cause of despotism? Have we not enemies enough abroad without sending those reinforcements? The shades of sixty thousand starved Union patriots are pointing their lean fingers to a high gallows, to [illegible] from [illegible] the [illegible] and prominent instruments of the late rebellion and its horrid accompaniments shall be ordered from a world cursed too long with their [illegible] presence to a country prepared expressly for traitors and rebels. The sentence of the law is death to traitors. Why not let the penalty of their crime be meted out to both military and civil leaders?"

U. S. 7-30 LOAN!

BY AUTHORITY OF THE SECRETARY OF THE Treasury, the undersigned has assumed the General Subscription Agency for the sale of United States Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three tenths per cent interest per annum, known as the

SEVEN-THIRTY LOAN.

These Notes are issued under date June 15th, 1865, and are payable three years from that time, in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 Six per cent.

Gold Bearing Bonds.

These bonds are now worth a premium of [illegible] per cent, including gold interest from November, which makes the actual profit on the 7-30 loan, at current rates, including interest, about ten per cent per annum, besides its exemption FROM STATE AND MUNICIPAL TAXATION, WHICH ADDS FROM ONE TO THREE PER CENT. MORE, according to the rate levied on other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest amounts to

|---|---|
| One cent per day on a $50 note | |
| Two cents | $100 |
| Ten | $500 |
| 20 | $1000 |
| $1 | $5000 |

Notes of all denominations will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions. This is

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET

now offered by the Government, and it is confidently expected that its superior advantages will make it the

GREAT POPULAR LOAN Of the People!

Less than $300,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within four months, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium, as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan, the National Banks, State Banks and Private Bankers throughout the country have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders.

[illegible] OF JULY MEETING LAST NIGHT

[illegible] of this city [illegible] to celebrate the [illegible] anniversary of [illegible] Independence [illegible] with a view [illegible] the preliminaries [illegible] was held at the [illegible] last evening. [illegible] Mr. E. J. Northrup was chosen President, and Mr. T. P. Miner Secretary.

On motion a Committee [illegible] John McCraken, A. M. Starr, [illegible] Beebe, Wm. Autie [illegible] and J. McCormick [illegible] were appointed to make all the necessary [illegible] for the [illegible] ceremonies.

[illegible] the above [illegible] of three [illegible] each Ward [illegible] follow:

First Ward—A. B. Wakefield, P. Wasserman [illegible].

Second Ward—Jas. Wejonne, W. H. [illegible].

Third Ward—C. P. Ferry, Lev. Estes, [illegible].

[illegible] that the Common Council be [illegible] for an appropriation to assist in defraying the [illegible] of the Celebration.

The several committees [illegible] to report [illegible] in the Reform [illegible] the meeting adjourned.

E. J. NORTHRUP, President.

T. P. MINER, Secretary.

[illegible] Col. Wright [illegible] Snake River [illegible] Road, of the O. S. N. Company [illegible] Colonel Wright [illegible] command of Capt. Stump [illegible] the upper [illegible] and having been specially fitted [illegible] the facilities for [illegible] the present stage of water [illegible] fully accomplished. [illegible] will give [illegible] transit [illegible] materially shortening the land travel to [illegible] and connect as much as [illegible]. Should the enterprise [illegible] reach Farewell Bend [illegible] construct a steamer [illegible] question of time, and Snake river [illegible] the present season [illegible] the stream to the mouth of the Salmon [illegible] was very much lower than [illegible] that the enterprise [illegible] will be carried through [illegible] will be looked for with great anxiety.

[illegible] FOR PROSPECTS. The country lying [illegible] Prairie and Mt. St. Helens [illegible] have paid a visit to this [illegible] the sure indications of a gold [illegible] Parties who visited [illegible] that after leaving Grouse Prairie [illegible] found a large river running [illegible] suppose to be the Cowlitz [illegible] of mountains dividing [illegible] and passing along the large river [illegible] a section which appeared to be an old [illegible] miles in extent [illegible] mixed with quartz rock, red earth, &c., [illegible] considered by a 49er a good place for [illegible] are of the opinion that if some enterprising [illegible] join in an expedition for exploring that [illegible] would find themselves well repaid for the [illegible] are too apt to disregard indication [illegible] prone to follow after discoveries in [illegible] and some are to be found willing to believe [illegible] in Boise, Washoe, California or Oregon [illegible] they get from home [illegible] that gold exists in paying quantities in [illegible] mountains and a prospecting party [illegible] even if nothing but [illegible] Are there young [illegible] found willing to make the venture?

[illegible] THE WATER COMPANY.—Complaints against [illegible] are often more freely offered than complaints [illegible]. We have an illustration in point [illegible] company in some instances have [illegible] work up with the street improvements [illegible] they were aware of what was going on, have had [illegible] entered for flooding the streets [illegible] the damage as soon as it was possible to [illegible]. Last week the persons grading Montgomery [illegible] cable to the pipes of the company, and without [illegible] word, to notify the Superintendent, or indeed [illegible] upon the pipe for their supply of water [illegible] and for a distance of some yards rolled the [illegible] laid it in a heap on the bank. Two or three [illegible] before any notice was given of the transact [illegible] domestics were left in the lurch, and [illegible] was, suspiciously stopped for the lack of [illegible]. The company received the sporlets usual in such [illegible] ted liege lords, but really they were [illegible]. It was a case of individual intrusion, and [illegible] of cutting off the desirable flow of the [illegible] belongs all the blame for not giving families [illegible] tunity to secure a bucket full ahead.

[illegible] OF ACCOMMODATION.—There is very evidently [illegible] accommodating set of officials in the San [illegible] graph office as we have here. For eleven [illegible] we have made every effort possible to have in [illegible] regular dispatches a list of the arrivals [illegible] and departures of the steamships, barks and [illegible] employed in the trade of the northern coast, [illegible] our citizens are always interested, and a switch [illegible] reporter there has daily papers in profusion, [illegible] correct marine accounts there [illegible] no hope of his looking beyond a local item of [illegible] trouble in the streets to make up the [illegible] News" daily forwarded over the wires to [illegible] and others along the line, leaving us in nearly [illegible] without a tap of the intelligence desired, and [illegible] private dispatches we rarely know of ships [illegible] to Portland, until they are within fifty miles of [illegible] the Cowlitz river. We shall look in future [illegible] more attention paid to this matter.

[illegible]—Ben met us yesterday with [illegible] his eyes doubled up, and demanded a retraction [illegible] of that atrocious attempt to commit [illegible] facts are that instead of him seeking [illegible] at the front door the fugitive broke out at [illegible] and over the roof of an [illegible] building [illegible] at the time the frightened [illegible] through the streets [illegible] hell and sleep, but as that was no crime [illegible] and is about his business [illegible] to make the correction; now [illegible] did not break in, but they broke out. [illegible] make the amende as a [illegible].

[illegible] A HORSE.—A horse escaped from [illegible] street, in this city, on Wednesday [illegible] a team to the Red House kept on to [illegible] on the Willamette, fourteen miles further [illegible] the boat at the landing to ferry him to the [illegible] he took to the water and swam across. The current being rather swift bore him [illegible] below where he had started in to cross, [illegible] the road on the opposite shore finding [illegible] in an extensive pasture lot, where the [illegible] him and brought him back to his regular [illegible].

[illegible].—At the solicitation of a friend of [illegible] the temporary studio of Mr. Hoff, and in [illegible] of really meritorious landscape paintings [illegible] by him for the officers of the O. S. N. Co. [illegible] embrace the stupendous works of the [illegible] banks of the Columbia, which they would [illegible] to combine with the beauties of [illegible] [illegible] Walrond to create quite a sensation among [illegible] Eastern society, for rarely from the regions [illegible] the Oregon. They will be appreciated at [illegible].

[illegible] OF FOREMEN.—We are requested by Chief Engineer [illegible] to give notice that it is desired that there [illegible] meeting of the Foremen of the several Fire Companies [illegible] of the city at his office, corner of Front and Morrison [illegible] up stairs, at 7 o'clock this evening. A full attendance [illegible] essential for the business to be transacted.

[illegible] JULY.—It is of the utmost importance that [illegible] coming Fourth of July be handsomely commemorated [illegible] this city and by the well known integrity of the [illegible] who were selected last evening to make the arrangements [illegible], we indulge pleasant anticipations that it [illegible] be made an occasion alike creditable to the city and [illegible].

[illegible] VILLE.—The race at Jacksonville [illegible] between Mahomet and Mollie [illegible] mile heats, [illegible] three—was won by Mahomet in two straight [illegible] Time, 1.51 and 1.57. Stakes $400.

[illegible] RIVER.—From purser Church of the steamer [illegible] we learn that the upper Willamette river is [illegible] lower. Freights are [illegible] light [illegible] boats will probably lay up.

[illegible].—LEVI ANDERSON is a [illegible] of City Recorder, [illegible] to the [illegible] Union Nomination.

[illegible].—The Friends of R. L. [illegible] announce him as a candidate for the [illegible] TREASURER, subject to the action of the [illegible].

[illegible] JOSEPH JEFFERS [illegible] as a Candidate for the office of CITY [illegible], subject to the decision of the Union Convention.

JUDGE DAVID T. LENOX announces himself [illegible] for the Office of CITY RECORDER [illegible] to the decision of the Union Convention, to be [illegible] Monday evening next.

The Friends of W. P. DORAND [illegible] him as a candidate for the Office of CITY [illegible], at the ensuing June Election. [illegible] May 24th, 1865.

F. DALTON, Proprietor,
20 First street, Portland, Oregon.

A WORD TO SMOKERS. It is not our intention [illegible] preach a reform against the growing and [illegible] able use of the weed [illegible] it is a luxurious comfort. What gentleman, we ask, old or young, who will [illegible] this habit of smoking himself [illegible] particularly after a hearty meal will [illegible]. We speak from experience [illegible] indulge in a cigar ourselves, but what we wish to suggest is this, that justly popular fragrant [illegible] Dentifrice, SOZODONT, [illegible] after smoking [illegible] the [illegible] taste and [illegible] breath. [illegible] All Druggists [illegible].

THE GREAT ATTRACTION AND WOMAN'S [illegible] [illegible] the Wheeler & Wilson Family Sewing machine. It is justly the [illegible] the Queen of Machines. We have never heard a dissenting voice on the subject where it has been tried. F. G. Randall, Agent for Portland.

Weekly Retail Family Market.

THURSDAY, June [illegible], 1865.

We notice but little [illegible] in retail prices, and [illegible] the [illegible] retail [illegible] and [illegible]. They [illegible] changes however to [illegible] weekly [illegible].

The supply of eggs appears to be falling off somewhat and in consequence of being rather light prices have advanced [illegible] at [illegible] per dozen. Shippers and dealers [illegible] 30 cents by the quantity from first hands.

Butter is in [illegible] great demand and the supply [illegible] large [illegible] is at [illegible] per [illegible] or [illegible] shipment [illegible] retail 40 cents for best quality.

Of cheese we have very little [illegible] Oregon. There has [illegible] make in the market this season. Lots of [illegible] at 20 cents [illegible] but is principally held in Front street at 25 cents. At retail the [illegible] is selling from 25 to 30 cts ℔ ℔.

Oregon dried fruits are nearly out of the market. The stock of Eastern on hand is good.

Lard is decidedly scarce, and a fine quality of Oregon fresh would readily command 25 to 30 cents by the quantity. Retail quotations remain unchanged.

The supply in hams and shoulders is light, the principal part being in the hands of heavy holders, and is held at 24 cents. Retail prices are for sugar cured 30 cts; ordinary 25 to 26 cents.

We would call attention while on this subject to a lot of dried beef put up by Mr. Cross of Salem, [illegible] by Mr. O'Connor, on Front st. [illegible] It is [illegible] the best we have found in the city—retailing at 25 cents ℔ ℔.

All varieties of vegetables are scarce but from present appearances there will be a sufficiency of most kinds in the market within a few weeks.

Even fruit is becoming more abundant. Currants are bring [illegible] of the stalls and retail from 25 to [illegible] cents ℔ gallon. Cherries are more abundant but not unlike strawberries rule high. The former retail at from 25 to 40 cents all along, [illegible] as it has [illegible]. The best quality and strawberries are offered from the producer at [illegible] cents ℔ ℔. Retail at 75 cents in all the markets [illegible].

As a Spring Purifier, OSGOOD'S INDIA CHOLAGOGUE is invaluable. If there be a weak spot about us, Spring with its variable temperature, easterly winds, damp chilly atmosphere is sure to find it. A bilious constitution is particularly susceptible to these changes, and requires the aid of a good dissolvent to restore the tone of the liver and relieve the system of the accumulated bile. One bottle of Cholagogue accomplishes the effect.

THE FLORENCE

Sewing Machines

ARE NOW UNIVERSALLY ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE

BY FAR

THE MOST SIMPLY CONSTRUCTED

Easily Managed,

HANDSOMELY FURNISHED

and Durable

FAMILY SEWING MACHINE,

NOW IN USE.

Possessing the Most Desirable Points of all other First-Class Machines, it Surpasses them by the Simplicity of its Construction, and the Ease and Facility with which it Performs a Greater Variety of Work than all other Machines Combined.

IT HEMS, FELLS, GATHERS, BRAIDS, QUILTS, and with one and Sews on a Ruffle at the same time.

We claim for the Florence the following advantages over any and all Sewing Machines:

1st. It makes four different stitches, the lock, knot, double lock and double knot, on one and the same Machine. Each stitch being alike on both sides of the fabric.

2d. It has the reversible feed motion, which enables the operator, by simply turning a thumb screw, to have the work run either to the right or left, to stay any part of the seam or fasten the ends of seams without turning the fabric.

3d. Changing the length of stitch, and from one kind of stitch to another, can readily be done while the Machine is in motion.

4th. Every stitch is perfect in itself, making the seam secure and uniform.

5th. It is almost noiseless and can be used where quiet is necessary.

6th. Its motions are all positive; there are no springs to get out of order, and its simplicity enables the most inexperienced to operate it.

7th. It will do all the work of the operator in all its machine [illegible].

8th. It is the most rapid sewer in the world, making five stitches to each revolution.

9th. Its stitch is the wonder of all, because of its combination of the strength and beauty.

10th. It does the heaviest or finest work with equal facility without change of tension or machinery.

11th. Every Machine has one of Jench's patent hemmers attached (the right to use which we control) enabling the operator to turn any width of hem desired.

12th. There is no other Machine which will do so large a range of work as the FLORENCE.

13th. It does not require finer thread on the under side than it does for the upper.

14th. The needle is more easily adjusted than in any other Machine.

15th. It will sew across the heaviest seams, or from one to nine thicknesses of cloth, without change of tension or breaking of thread.

16th. It is fully protected and licensed by Elias Howe, Jr., and his Associates, and our own Letters Patent.

17th. To avoid the strain on the eyes, bent posture, close application and fatiguing care heretofore necessary on a large portion of work done on Sewing Machines, we now furnish each Machine with Barnum's Self Sewer, which guides the work itself, and is of incalculable value, especially to inexperienced operators.

18th. While possessing the above and many other advantages the FLORENCE is sold at corresponding prices with other first class Machines.

19th. We refrain from publishing the highly complimentary notices of the Press with which we have been favored and place our Machine before the public, believing that an intelligent examination of its merits will fully substantiate all that we have claimed for it, and justify the assertion we now make that it is the best Sewing Machine in the world.

20th. We Warrant every Machine to do all that we claim for it and will give a written warranty if required.

21st. Agents wanted in all the principal cities and towns on the Pacific Coast. With a small investment of capital a profitable business can soon be established.

The Conspiracy.

A Full Account of the Plot Against the Rulers of the Nation.

WASHINGTON, May 21. Justice and fame are equally and simultaneously satisfied. The President is at rest in his sarcophagus, but all the conspirators against his life with a minor exception are in their prison cells waiting for the halter.

The dark and bloody plot against a good ruler's life is so fully unravelled that I may make it plain [illegible]. There is nothing to be gained by further waiting; the facts are proceeding, the evidence is in [illegible]. The conspiracy was both the greatest and the smallest of our cycle. Not well in execution to a few, it was understood and connived at by a multitude. One man was its head and heart; its accessories were so numerous that the trouble is not whom to suspect, but whom to excuse. Damning as the result must be to the character of our race, it must be admitted, in the light of facts that Americans are as secretive and skillful plotters as any people in the world. The Rye House plot, never fully understood; the many schemes of Machiavel, never fastened upon him sufficiently well for implication, yield in extent, darkness and intricacy to the republican plot against the President's life and those of his counselors. The police operations prove that the late murder was not a spasmodic and fitful crime, but long premeditated and carried to consummation with as much heat and resolution as the murder of Allessandro de Medici or Henri Quatre.

THE ORIGIN OF THE CENTRE.

Southeast of Washington stretches a tapering peninsula, composed of four fertile counties which at the rear tip make Point Lookout, and do not contain any town within them of more than a few hundred inhabitants. Tobacco has ruined the land of them and slavery has ruined the people. Yet in the beginning they were of that splendid stock of Calvert and Lord Baltimore, but retain to-day only the religion of the peaceful founder. I mention it as an exception and remarkable fact that every conspirator in custody is by education a Catholic. These are our most loyal citizens elsewhere, but the western shore of Maryland is a noxious and pestilential place for patriotism. The country immediately outside of the District of Columbia to the south is named Prince George's, and the pleasantest village of this country, close to Washington, is Surrattsville. This consists of a few cabins at a cross road surrounding a fine old hotel, the master whereof, giving the settlement his name, left the property to his wife, who for a long time carried it on with indifferent success. Having a son and several daughters she moved to Washington soon after the beginning of the war and let the tavern to a trusty friend—one John Lloyd. Surrattsville has gained nothing in patronage or business from the war, except that it became at an early date a rebel Post Office. The great secret mail from Matthias Creek (Va.) to Port Tobacco struck Surrattsville and thence headed off to the east of Washington, going meanderingly north. Of this post route Mrs. Surratt was a manageress, and John Lloyd, when he rented her hotel, assumed the responsibility of looking out for the mail, as well as the duty of making Mrs. Surratt at home when she chose to visit him.

So Surrattsville, only ten miles from Washington, has been throughout the war a sect of conspiracy. It was like a suburb of Richmond, reaching quite up to the rival Capital; and though the few Unionists on the peninsula knew its reputation well enough, nothing of the sort came out until the murder.

Treason never found a better agent than Mrs. Surratt. She is a large, masculine, self-possessed female, mistress of her house, and as lithe a rebel as Belle Boyd or Mrs. Greenhow. She has not the flippancy and menace of the first, nor the social power of the second, but the rebellion has found no fitter agent.

At her country tavern and Washington home Booth was made welcome, and there began the muttered murder against the nation and mankind.

OLD IN CRIME, YOUNG IN TREASON.

The acquaintance of Mrs. Surratt, in Lower Maryland undoubtedly suggested to Booth the route of escape and made him known to his subsequent accomplices. Last Fall he visited the entire region, as far as Leonardstown, in St. Mary's county, professing to buy land, but really making himself informed upon the rebel post stations, with all the leading affiliations upon whom he could depend. At this time he bought a map, a fellow to which I have seen among Atzeroth's effects, published at Buffalo for the rebel Government, and marking at hap-hazard all the Maryland villages, but without tracing the highroads at all. The absence of these roads it will be seen hereafter, very nearly misled Booth during his crippled flight.

It could not but have struck Booth that this isolated part of Maryland, ignorant and rebel to the brim, without telegraph or railways, or direct stage routes, belted with swamps and broken by dense timber, afforded extraordinary opportunities of shelter and escape. Only the coast survey had any adequate map of it; it was terra incognita to all intents, and treason might subsist in welcome upon it for a thousand years.

When Booth cast around him for assistants, he naturally selected those men whom he could control. The first that recommended himself was one Harrold, a youth of inane and plastic character, carried away by the example of an actor, and full of execrable quotations, going to show that he was an imitator of the master spirit both in text and admiration. This Harrold was a gunner, and therefore versed in arms; he had traversed the whole lower portion of Maryland, and was therefore a geographer as well as a tool. His friends live at every farm-house between Washington and Leonardsville, and he was respectably enough connected, so as to make his association creditable as well as useful.

Harrold, whose picture I have seen, is a dull faced, shallow boy, smooth-haired, and provincial; he had no money or employment, except that he clerked for a druggist awhile, until he knew Wilkes Booth, who looked at him only once and bought his soul for a smile. Harrold was infatuated by Booth as a woman by a soldier. He copied his gait and tone, adopted his opinions, and was unhappy out of his society. Booth gave him money, mysteriously obtained, and together they made the acquaintance of young John Surratt, son of the conspiratress.

Young Surratt does not appear to have been a prime spirit in the scheme; indeed, all design and influence therein was absorbed by Mrs. Surratt and Booth. The latter was the head and heart of the plot. Mrs. Surratt was his anchor, and the rest of the boys were disciples to Iscariot and Jezebel. John Surratt, a youth of strong Southern physiognomy, beardless and lanky, knew of the murder and connived at it. "Sam" Arnold and one McLaughlin were to have been parties to it, but backed out in the end. They all relied upon Mrs. Surratt, and took their "cues" from Wilkes Booth.

DRIFTING TOWARD THE DEATH.

The conspiracy had its own time and kept its own counsel. Murder, except among the principals, was seldom mentioned except by genteel implication. But they all publicly agreed that Lincoln ought to be shot and that the North was a race of fratricides. Much was said of Brutus and Booth repeated heroic passages, to the delight of Harrold, who learned them also and wondered if he was not born to greatness.

In this growing darkness, where all rehearsed cold hearted murder, Wilkes Booth grew great of stature. He had found a purpose consonant with his evil nature and bad influence over weak men, so he grew moodier, more vigilant, more plausible. By mien and temperament he was born to handle a stiletto. We have no face so markedly Italian, it would stand for Cesar Borgia any day in the year. All the rest were swayed or persuaded by Booth. His schemes were three in order:

1st. To kidnap the President and Cabinet and run them South or blow them up.

2d. Kidnapping failed, to murder the President and the rest, and to seek shelter in the Confederate Capital.

3d. The rebellion failed, to be its avenger and throw the country into consternation while he escaped by the unfrequented parts of Maryland.

THE MEN FOR THE WORK.

When this last resolution had been made the plot was both contracted and extended. There were made two distinct circles of confidants—those aware of the meditated murder, and those who might shrink from murder, though willing accessories for a lesser object. Two colleagues for blood were at once accepted—Payne and Atzeroth.

The former I have sketched; he is believed to have visited Washington once before at Booth's citation for the murder was at first fixed for the day of inauguration. Atzeroth was a fellow of German descent who had led a desperate life at Port Tobacco where he was a house painter. He had been a blockade runner across the Potomac and a mail-carrier. When Booth and Mrs. Surratt broke the design to him with a suggestion that there was wealth in it he embraced the offer at once and bought a dirk and pistol. Payne also came from the North to Washington, and as fate would have it, the President was announced to appear at Ford's Theatre in public. Here the resolve of blood was reduced to a definite moment.

THE NIGHT BEFORE THE MURDER.

On the night before the crime Booth found on whom he could rely. John Surratt was sent northward by his mother on Thursday. Sam Arnold and McLaughlin each of whom was to kill a cabinet officer, grew pigeon hearted and ran away. Harrold true to his partiality lingered around Booth to the end. Atzeroth went so far as to take his knife and pistol to Kirkwood's, where President Johnson was stopping and hid them under the bed. But either his courage failed or a trifling accident deranged his plan. But Payne, a professional murderer, stood "game" and fought his way over prostrate figures to his sick victim's bed. There was great confusion and terror among the tacit and last conspirators on Thursday night. They had looked upon the plot as a melodrama and found to their horror, that John Wilkes Booth meant murder.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE MURDER AND THE FLIGHT.

Six weeks before the murder young John Surratt had taken two splendid repeating carbines to Surrattsville and told John Lloyd to secrete them. The latter made a hole in the wainscoting and suspended them from strings, so that they fell within the plastered wall below. On the very afternoon of the murder Mrs. Surratt was driven to Surrattsville and she told John Lloyd to have the carbines ready because they would be called for to-night. Harrold was made Quartermaster and hired the horses. He and Atzeroth were in unity between eight o'clock and the time of the murder, and riding about the streets together!

The whole party was prepared for a long ride as their spurs and gauntlets show. It may have been their design to ride in company to the Lower Potomac and by their numbers exact subsistence and transportation, but all edifices of murder lack a corner stone. We only know that Booth ate and talked well during the day, that he always seemed so deeply involved in [illegible], and that there is a hiatus between his supper here and his appearance at Ford's Theatre.

ROVERS OR [illegible]

Lloyd, I may interpolate, ordered his wife a few days before the murder to go on a visit to Allen's Fresh. She says she does not know why she was sent away, but swears that at one time Harrold, three weeks before the murder, visited Port Tobacco, and said that the next time they heard of him he would be in Spain, he added that with Spain there was no extradition treaty. He said at Surrattsville that he meant to make a fortune or his neck would stretch. After this he said that if he ever came to Port Tobacco again he would be rich enough to buy the whole place.

Wilkes Booth told a friend to go to Ford's on Friday night and see the best acting in the world.

THE MURDERS.

All evil deeds go wrong. While the click of the pistol, taking the President's life, went like a pang through the theater, Payne was spilling blood in Seward's house from threshold to sick chamber. But Booth's broken leg delayed him or made him lose his general calmness, and he and Harrold left Payne to his fate.

I have not adverted to the hole bored with a gimlet in the entry door of Lincoln's box, and cut out with a penknife. The theory that the pistol ball of Booth passed through this hole is now exploded. And the stage carpenter may have to answer for this little orifice with all the neck. For when Booth leaped from the box he strode straight across the stage by the footlights, reaching the prompter's post, which is immediately behind that private box opposite to Lincoln. From this box to the stage door in the rear, the passage way leads behind the ends of the scenes and is generally either closed up by one or more withdrawn scenes or so narrow that only by doubling and turning sidewise can one pass along. On this fearful night, however, the scenes were so adjusted to the murderer's design that he had a free aisle from the foot of the stage to the exit door.

THE TELEGRAPH WIRES SEVERED.

Within fifteen minutes after the murder the wires were severed entirely around the city, excepting only a secret wire for Government use, which leads to Old Point. I am told that by this wire the Government reached the fortifications around Washington, first telegraphing all the way to Old Point, and then back to the outlying forts. This information comes to me from so many credible channels that I must concede to it.

THE FLIGHT OF PAYNE.

Payne having as he thought, made an end of Seward—which would have been the case but for Robinson, the nurse—mounted his horse, and attempted to find Booth. But the town was in alarm, and he galloped at once for the open country, taking, as he imagined, the proper road for the East Branch. He rode at a killing pace, and when he neared Fort Lincoln, on the Baltimore pike, his horse threw him headlong. Afoot and bewildered, he resolved to return to the city, whose lights he could plainly see, but before doing so he concealed himself some time, and made some almost absurd efforts to disguise himself. Cutting a cross section from the woolen undershirt which covered his muscular arm, he made a rude cap of it, and threw away his bloody coat. This has since been found in the woods, and blood has been found also on his bosom and sleeves. He also spattered himself plentifully with mud and clay and taking an abandoned pick from the deserted intrenchments near by, he struck out at once for Washington.

By the providence which always attends murder, he reached Mrs. Surratt's door just as the officers of the Government were arresting her. They seized Payne at once, who had an awkward lie to urge in his defense—that he had come there to dig a trench. That night he dug a trench deep and broad enough for both of them to lie in forever. They washed his hands and found them soft and womanish; his pockets contained tooth and nail brushes and a delicate pocket knife. All this consorted ill with his assumed character. He is without doubt, Seward's attempted murderer.

HOW A WOMAN CAN MURDER.

Coarse, and hard, and calm, Mrs. Surratt shut up her house after the murder, and waited with her daughters till the officers came. She was imperturbable, and rebuked her girls for weeping, and would have gone to jail like a statue, but that in her extremity, Payne knocked at her door. He had come he said, to dig a ditch for Mrs. Surratt, whom he very well knew. But Mrs Surratt protested that she had never seen the man at all, and had no ditch to clean.

"How fortunate girls," she said "that those officers are here, this man might have murdered us all."

Her effrontery stamps her as worthy of companionship with Booth. Payne has been identified by a lodger of Mrs. Surratt's, as having twice visited the house under the name of Wood. The girls will render valuable testimony in the trial. If John Surratt were in custody the links would be complete.

FLIGHT OF ATZEROTH.

Atzeroth had a room almost directly over Vice President Johnson's. He had all the materials to do murder, but lost spirit or opportunity. He ran away so hastily that all his arms and baggage were discovered, a tremendous bowie knife and a Colt's cavalry revolver were found between the mattresses of his bed. Booth's coat was also found there, showing conspired flight in company, and in it three boxes of cartridges, a map of Maryland, gauntlets for riding, a spur and a handkerchief marked with the name of Booth's mother—a mother's souvenir for a murderer's pocket.

Atzeroth fled alone, and was found at the house of his uncle in Montgomery county. I do not know that any instrument of murder has ever made me thrill as when I drew his terrible bowie knife from the sheath. Major O'Bierne, of New York, was the instigator of Atzeroth's discovery and arrest.

FLIGHT OF BOOTH AND HARROLD.

I come now to the ride out of the city by the chief assassin and his dupe. Harrold met Booth immediately after the crime in the next street, and they rode at a gallop past the Patent Office and over Capitol Hill.

As they crossed the eastern branch at Uniontown Booth gave his proper name to the officer at the bridge. This, which would seem to have been foolish, was, in reality very shrewd. The officers believed that one of Booth's accomplices had given this name in order to put them off the real Booth's track. So they made efforts elsewhere and so Booth got a start. At midnight precisely the two horsemen stopped at Surrattsville, Booth remaining on his nag while Harrold descended and knocked lustily at the door. Lloyd, the landlord, came down at once, when Harrold pushed past him into the bar and obtained a bottle of whisky, some of which he gave to Booth immediately. While Booth was drinking, Harrold went up stairs and brought down one of the carbines. Lloyd started to get the other, but Harrold said:

"We don't want it. Booth has broken his leg and I can't carry it."

So the second carbine remained in the hall where the officers afterward found it.

As the two horsemen started to go off Booth cried out to Lloyd:

"Do you want to hear some news,"

"I don't care much about it," cried Lloyd, by his own account.

"We have murdered," said Booth, "the President and Secretary of State!"

And with this horrible confession, Booth and Harrold dashed away in the midnight across Prince George's county.

THE BROKEN LEG.

On Saturday, before sunrise Booth and Harrold who had ridden all night without stopping elsewhere reached the house of Dr Mudd, three miles from Bryantown. They contracted with him for $25 in greenbacks, to set the broken leg. Harrold, who knew Dr. Mudd, introduced Booth under another name, and stated that he had fallen from his horse during the night. The doctor remarked of Booth that he drayed the lower part of his face while the leg was being set. He was silent and in pain. Having no splints in the house they split up an old fashioned wooden band box and prepared them. The doctor was assisted by an Englishman, who at the same time began to hew out a pair of crutches. The [illegible] of the left leg was broken vertically across, and because vertically it did not yield when the crippled man walked upon it.

The riding boot of Booth had to be cut from his foot, within it were the words "J. Wilkes." The doctor says he did not notice these, but that [illegible]. The two men waited around the house all day, but towards evening they slipped their horses from the stable and rode away in the direction of Allen's Fresh.

THE MURDERERS BEWILDERED.

Below Bryantown run certain deep and slimy swamps. Along the belt of these Booth and Harrold picked up a negro named Swan, who volunteered to show them the road for two dollars. They gave him five more to show them the route Allen's Fresh, but really wished, as their actions intimate, to gain the house of one Sam Cox, a notorious rebel and probably well advised of the plot. They reached the house at midnight. It is a fine dwelling, one of the best in Maryland. After hallooing for some time, Cox came down to the door himself. As soon as he opened it and beheld who the strangers were he instantly blew out a candle he held in his hand, and without a word pulled them into the house, they not going out till morning in the yard. The only light they made [illegible] in Cox's house till 4 A. M., [illegible]. The negro saw them drink and [illegible], but when they reappeared they spoke in a loud tone, so that Swan could hear them, against the hospitality of Cox. All this was a ruse to influence the darky. [illegible] their words. He conducted them three miles farther on, when they told him that now they knew the way, and giving him five dollars more—making twelve in all—told him to go back.

But when the negro in the dusk of the morning, looked after them as he went back he saw that both horses' heads were turned once more toward Cox's, and it was thus made evident who had aided the fugitives from Sunday to Thursday, aided probably by such neighbors as the Wilsons and Adamses.

CROSSING THE RIVER.

At the point where Booth crossed the Potomac the shores are very shallow, and one must wade out some distance to where a boat will float. A white man came up here with a canoe on Friday and tied it by a stone anchor. Between seven and eight o'clock it disappeared, and in the afternoon some men at work on Mathy creek in Virginia saw Booth and Harrold land, tie the boat's rope to a stone and fling it ashore and strike at once across a plowed field for King George Court house. Many folks entertained them without [illegible], but we positively hear of them next at Port Royal ferry, and then at Garrett's farm.—N. Y. World.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,
Asthma, Croup,
Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction, even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

LILLIE'S LOCK OPENED In One Minute.

NEW YORK, September 2, 1864.

F. TILMAN, Esq., 318 Battery street,
Between Commercial and Clay, San Francisco.

DEAR SIR; WE NOTICE AN ADvertisement in your daily papers respecting the "security" of the "Lillie" lock. We are aware that you well understand this lock, and, of course, will not allow yourself to be annoyed by such representations. We have just sent for one of our [illegible] and he in our presence opened one of Lillie's best safe locks, after it had been locked and the combination turned on

By One Blow of the Hammer

Against the knob on the outside, and thereby breaking the cast iron lock inside.

The whole time occupied in opening the lock was about ONE MINUTE. We send you this lock that your friends may not be deceived by false representations, etc.

Respectfully, etc.
A. E. TILTON,
WM. McFARLAND.

NO PRACTICAL
Lock Picker or Thimble Rigger
Required to OPERATE THE SAID LILLIE LOCK.

Any parties desirous of seeing the above mentioned lock, its insecurity and easy mode of opening the same, can call at 318 Battery Street, San Francisco.

GALVESTON, March 26, 1864.

Messrs. TILTON & McFARLAND, Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen: From representations made by Mr. Lillie I was induced to purchase from one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so-called "safe" was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe with what is left of the papers and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we watched McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar—such as lard, pork, etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire faring however no better than ours.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servants,
(Signed) GEO. L. CHESBORO & CO.

TILTON & M'FARLAND'S SAFE,

The Only Protection
Against Fire and Burglars.
For the last Fifty Years

This Safe has been well known in California and the Eastern States. They have resisted all the fires on the Pacific Coast, and we can point with satisfaction to the record that out of one of our Safes by means of Burglars. Their fire and burglar proof qualities are so well known that they need no further recommendation.

No Man ever Lost a Dollar

A good assortment of Tilton & McFarland's Fire and Burglar Proof Safes to be had at 318 Battery Street, San Francisco.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

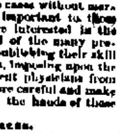
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Camb Place, Pad. Lock, Harrow road; St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street; Westminster, Broad Sanctuary, Charring Cross, Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road, Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of Birmingham, England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use. For Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney street, near Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

Consultations FREE.

Prevention Better than Cure.

The newly invented Patent French Safe, a sure Preventive against Disease and Pregnancy, sent by mail. Price $2. Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 617 Kearney St., near Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box 252.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates dupe the unwary. Some of these self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupation in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets; for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Doctor Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Doctor Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Consultations FREE. m18 1ym
